SPONTANEOUS KNIFE DEFENCE TRAINING COURSE

Overview

In today's society, the use of an 'edge weapon', eg; knife, broken glass, broken bottle or a syringe in crimes are ever increasing and it is a very real possibility that a Security Officer will face this scenario whilst on duty.

Whilst legally, you could deploy your Firearm or your Baton. There is every chance that you will not have enough time to react and respond so that only leaves empty hand control.

Participants

It is recommended that Security Officers, employed in the Security Industry should participate in this specialised training.

Course Outline

In this Intercept Security Course, you will learn to utilize components of PPCT (Pressure Point Control Tactics). You will learn the principle that often less is best in the event of an incident. This training is designed to be easy to practice, yet very effective in action.

The course is broken into two main areas : 'Theory and Practice'

Theory Component

We look at the survival stress research—what you can do to avoid having to face an edged weapon using only empty hand control and what happens to your body during the time of attack.

Practical Component

You will learn several simple but very effective techniques designed to give you maximum chance of survival should you have to defend yourself against an edged weapon assault.

Other recommended courses : Batons and Handcuffs, Empty Hand Techniques, Firearms Accreditation, etc...

How to Enrol : Bookings Essential.

Course Cost : $ 150.00
